Important Update on the Adventurous Journey Section as part of The Award Programme

We are excited to announce a flexibility to the Adventure Journey requirements:

-Bronze Level: The Practice Adventure Journey can be waived if the NAO considers that adequate preliminary training is done, and the requirements of the Adventurous Journey. This adjustment is aimed at making the Award Programme more accessible and encouraging wider participation at the introductory level.

-Silver & Gold Levels: The Practice Adventure Journey remains a mandatory component. Participants at these levels are required to complete The Preliminary Training, the Practice Journey and the Qualifying Journeys to meet the programme's standards.

This change allows participants to focus on enjoying the experience of self discovery from the Adventure Journey experience at Bronze while maintaining the rigor and leadership development elements at Silver and Gold levels.

For any clarification/assistance, please contact the programme team.

Social Outreach: The Rapture Of Fostering Community

2024-2025

“Only a life lived for others is a life worthwhile” ~Albert Einstein

This quote resonates with me and my experience of a social outreach program as a part of IAYP Voluntary Service. During my journey with the IAYP Bronze level at JBCN International School, Mrs. Madhuri Gour has been my guiding star. Each experience has etched itself into my memory, creating indelible moments. Merging service with expertise, this program has sparked my insight and uplifted my spirit, creating timeless memories.

IAYP and the social outreach venture blend skills with altruism. This initiative inspires us to teach elementary students from rural and tribal backgrounds rudimentary English and mathematics. Yet, my classmates and I have achieved much more than education—we have embraced the profound wisdom of human connections and community bonds.

This wholesome and fulfilling experience had a profound impact on my character. Being trilingual and fluent in local languages like Marathi, I never truly appreciated it enough. However, this social outreach program made me realize the brawn that multilingualism held. What spoke to me besides that was the interaction between the elementary schoolers and my classmates, who weren't fluent in Marathi or Hindi. By overcoming the language barrier with ease, the kids made me and my classmates grin, fostering a wholesome experience. It made me realize that, though language is a tool for communication, the need for human connection always surpasses it.

My work with these children, helping them excel, deepened my humanity and care for others. It made me realise the impact and importance of community and the joy it brings to one.

Reflections on Meeting HRH Prince Edward: IAYP Participants Share Their Experiences!

The IAYP journey has been an incredibly enriching experience for me, and the opportunity to meet Prince Edward made it even more inspiring. During our conversation, we discussed the four quadrants of IAYP—Adventure Journey, Physical Recreation, Skill, and Voluntary Service. This meeting reinforced the importance of pushing our boundaries, staying active, contributing to our communities, and developing new skills beyond academics. Hearing firsthand how such initiatives are valued on a global scale made me appreciate the impact of our efforts even more. The visit has motivated me to stay committed to the values of IAYP and continue exploring new challenges.

Cambridge Assessment International Education

The International Award for Young People is presently working with Cambridge Assessment International Education in providing new ways to broaden the curriculum in the education world in India. Both our organisations believe that learning should not be confined to the classroom, but should also take place in the school environment and wider community.
