Important Update on the Adventurous Journey Section as part of The Award Programme

We are excited to announce a flexibility to the Adventure Journey requirements:

-Bronze Level: The Practice Adventure Journey can be waived if the NAO considers that adequate preliminary training is done, and the requirements of the Adventurous Journey. This adjustment is aimed at making the Award Programme more accessible and encouraging wider participation at the introductory level.

-Silver & Gold Levels: The Practice Adventure Journey remains a mandatory component. Participants at these levels are required to complete The Preliminary Training, the Practice Journey and the Qualifying Journeys to meet the programme's standards.

This change allows participants to focus on enjoying the experience of self discovery from the Adventure Journey experience at Bronze while maintaining the rigor and leadership development elements at Silver and Gold levels.

For any clarification/assistance, please contact the programme team.

The Award in Action - Jindal Vidya Mandir, Salav

Participating in the Bronze level of The Award Programme has been a truly transformative learning experience. Setting goals for each activity and working consistently towards them has helped me develop confidence, resilience, and discipline. Among the three components, working on my skills had the most profound impact on me.

I am very glad to be the part of The International Award for Young People (IAYP), which is helping me develop my creativity, and helping me to find out more information about cooking which I have chosen as my skill activity. Accordingly, we have to do each activity for one hour in a week but it's very enjoying, so I like to go with it more. As I'm learning to convert every food in Jain food so it's helping me to go through each and every ingredients, which I did not know. I use different kinds of ingredients and kinds of vessels for cooking. It's not easy to cook as sometimes we may get hurt, we make the kitchen dirty and again we have to clean it too. It's a beautiful time when I go through this activity and it's my pleasure to join. I am very grateful to be part of this and I want to continue this journey which helps me to develop my cooking skills.

Reflections on Meeting HRH Prince Edward: IAYP Participants Share Their Experiences in New Delhi!

The opportunity to interact with His Royal Highness, the Duke of Edinburgh, was not only a moment of honour, but also led me to truly realise the impact of youth engagement as demonstrated through the IAYP Programme itself. This was in terms of both the outcomes of the projects I undertook as part of the IAYP but also allowed me to reflect on the personal development I have undergone over the past 16 months. His Royal Highness' genuine interest in the work of every student and his insightful questions on how our projects had developed as well as his encouragement for the same reinforced the core ideas of the IAYP – by achieving their full growth potential, young people are set up to become not just the leaders of tomorrow but have the power to effect change today. Meeting the Duke was more than just a memorable experience—it was a moment of motivation and reminded me how significant the work each of us was doing could have a lasting personal and social impact. His Royal Highness' words and presence served as a reminder that leadership lies in the ability to inspire and empower others and remain perseverant. Thus, by reaffirming my belief in the core values of the IAYP, I feel the experience had a significant impact on my commitment to personal growth and community engagement.
